

MORE POWER TO REVISERS

Insurgents Pleased With Tariff Plan For Wider Scope

PRESIDENT ALSO FAVORS IT

More Scientific Basis for Revision Wanted in West—Will Be Met by Proposed Enlarging of Tariff Board's Powers.

Washington, April 27.—Western Republicans, representing districts where the tariff law is unpopular, are elated over assurances given by the House leaders that the powers of the existing tariff board will be so broadened as to enable them to tell their constituents that the revision will be based on official data prepared by experts, instead of upon that supplied by interested persons or corporations. After an interview with President Taft Monday, Representative Tamm, one of the House leaders, announced that the president is favorable to an enlargement of the powers of the tariff board, and that he will be pleased if Congress gives the body specific authority to make inquiries into cost of production here and abroad, as well as confer upon it inquisitorial powers. Formerly the advocates of a "tariff commission" insisted that such a body should be clothed with authority to change rates along certain lines prescribed by Congress. The point was made that under the constitution Congress could not delegate the taxing power. Republicans quite generally take this view of the case. Insurgents, who supported the tariff commission plan during the consideration of the Payne-Aldrich bill, have given notice that if the board is directed to make cost inquiries, and empowered, incident to investigations conducted in this country, to enforce the attendance of witnesses and to compel the production of books and papers, they will be glad to support the amendment to be incorporated in the sundry civil bill enlarging the powers of the board.

Although there is no official authority for the statement, there is good reason to believe that the Republican leaders in Congress, prompted by President Taft, have decided to make the concession indicated to the progressive or insurgent element of the party. The insurgents have repeatedly insisted that they did not look for another general revision of the tariff in the near future. They have taken the position that the latest revision was not as good as it might have been, and that in order to avoid a repetition of the mistakes they believed marked the passage of the Aldrich-Payne law inquiries should be made upon the basis of more scientific revisions in the future.

Request for Copies of Correspondence Relating to Negotiations.

Washington, April 27.—Tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries under the terms of the maximum and minimum clauses of the Payne-Aldrich tariff will be discussed if the House adopts a resolution which was favorably reported yesterday from the ways and means committee by Representative Underwood of Alabama. The resolution calls upon the president to transmit to the House, if not incompatible with the public interest, copies of all correspondence, papers and treaties received by the department of state and the treasury department, relating to the granting to foreign governments of the minimum tariff and to inform the House what countries have been afforded the benefits of the minimum rates, and the terms under which such action was taken by the president. The resolution also demands information as to what discriminations were made by foreign countries which have been accorded the benefits of the minimum tariff rates before they were accorded such privileges and what concessions were made by these countries in order to obtain such rates.

RAILROAD BILL HITS OBSTACLE.

Opposition in House May Kill Court of Commerce Provision.

Washington, April 27.—Opposition to the administration railroad bill came to a head in the House yesterday, when it was called up for consideration, and amendment under the five-minute rule and the preliminary skirmishes indicated very plainly that a number of insurgent Republicans will join with the Democrats in opposing the measure, particularly that feature which applies to the creation of a court of commerce.

By Appointment of Hughes to Supreme Court Bench.

New York, April 27.—Norman E. Mack, chairman of the national Democratic committee, said last night:

"President Taft, by the appointment of Governor Hughes, has removed from New York politics the only asset of the Republican party. The appointment will be gratifying to the old guard, as it will enable them to some extent to remove their attacks on the treasury. I think Governor Hughes will make a good income."

NORWICH LOST TO MAINE UNIVERSITY

Game Full of Hard Hitting and Loose Fielding Played at Northfield.

Score 9 to 4.

Northfield, April 27.—Norwich university was defeated yesterday afternoon by the university of Maine, 9 to 4, in a game full of hard hitting and errors. Both Parkman and Richards were hit freely, and Norwich played a poor game in the field. Reid's batting and base running and Gordon's batting were the features of the home team's game, while Pond of Maine distinguished himself with a home run. N. Seales, Maine's right infielder, sprained an ankle and had to be carried from the field on a stretcher. The score:

A CAPITOL OF CAPITOLS

New Home of the Bureau of American Republics

IS SUBSTANTIALLY THAT

An Impressive Dedication—President Taft and Other Noted Personages Are Among the Number Present.

Washington, April 27.—The beautiful new home of the international bureau of the American republics, was yesterday formally dedicated in the presence of a most distinguished company.

Just two years ago President Roosevelt laid the corner stone of this building, which has been described by Andrew Carnegie as a "temple of peace, commerce and friendship," and which Secretary Root has called a "capital in the capital of the United States of all the American nations."

The international and local appreciation of the significance of the dedication of this diplomatic palace was abundantly proved by the presence at the exercises as participants in the programs of the president of the United States, the secretary of state, the Mexican ambassador, Cardinal Gibbons, Senator Elihu Root, Andrew Carnegie, Bishop Harding, Director John Barrett, members of the diplomatic corps, of the supreme court and the cabinet as well as senators and representatives of the national Congress, high army and naval officers, and a long list of distinguished men and women.

The celebration to which the president referred as the most important international event which Washington had witnessed in many years, was divided into two parts; in the afternoon were held the actual ceremonies attending the formal dedication, when impressive speeches were made by eminent officials and individuals. The ceremonies were initiated by an invocation by Cardinal Gibbons, who was followed by Secretary Knox, who delivered the formal opening address, in his capacity of chairman of the governing board of the international bureau of the American republics.

Senator Root, who was secretary of state when Mr. Carnegie conceived the project of erecting this building, delivered an address, which was responded to by Senator Don Francisco Laun de la Barra, the Mexican ambassador, in behalf of the Latin American diplomatic corps. Mr. Carnegie delivered a characteristic address. There were readings of cable messages from the presidents at the Latin American republics, congratulating Mr. Carnegie and the bureau of American republics upon the completion of the great work, and then President Taft added his tribute in a speech of about half an hour in length. Just preceding the benediction by Right Reverend Bishop Harding, which concluded the afternoon exercises, occurred one of the most unique and interesting features of the program, when President Taft and Mr. Carnegie jointly planted a "Peace tree" in the patio, or court yard.

Last night the governing board of the bureau and the directors gave a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie, which was attended by the president, the diplomatic corps, and officers of the army and navy in full uniform. Altogether it is expected to be one of the most brilliant functions of the social season. The music was provided by the marine band.

The new home of the bureau represents the expenditure of one million dollars, of which sum Mr. Carnegie contributed $750,000 and the 21 American republics for the remainder. It is described by the best critics of architecture and construction, as one of the most artistic official buildings in the world.

It occupies one of the most commanding sites of the capital, overlooking the Potomac park and river, facing the open grounds before the White House, and near the Washington monument. It will afford a commodious home for the bureau of American republics, which has been developing with remarkable rapidity within the last few years and is doing much to strengthen the ties that bind together the American republics and to encourage commerce, friendship and peace.

It publishes a monthly bulletin descriptive of the progress and conditions of the American republics, which President Taft has described as the most instructive and interesting official publication in the world.

The architecture of the new building is a combination of classical and Spanish and it is built entirely of white marble. Upon its walls are the escutcheons in colors of the American flag.

republics, interspersed with names of their heroes of war and peace.

Another notable feature of the building is the handsome assembly room, known as the "Hall of the Republics," which is regarded as the first large room of its kind in Washington, suited, by its elegance and dignity, for international conferences, diplomatic functions and receptions to distinguished foreigners. It also has a noble hall of fame in which will be placed the statues and busts of the great generals, statesmen and scholars of American history and in which will hang the silken drape of each nation.

CHECKING ORAL BOOKMAKING.

Bill Prohibiting Publication of Betting Odds Advanced in New York Senate.

Albany, N. Y., April 27.—Without opposition or debate, the three Aeneas Perkins bills designed to prohibit oral bookmaking, and the Aeneas bill prohibiting the publication of betting odds, were advanced to the order of final passage in the Senate yesterday.

The resolution calling for a thorough investigation of corrupt practices, has practically been adopted. The bill placing telephone and telegraph companies under the jurisdiction of the public service commission is about ready for legislative approval.

The anti-brookmaking bills have passed the assembly, as has the bill enlarging the powers of the public service commission. The assembly has voted against the federal income tax plan, as recommended by the governor.

IN BOSTON MARKETS.

Butter Will Probably Be Lower—Eggs Remain About the Same.

Boston, April 27.—The local butter market has become rather unsettled, as a result of the weakness in other markets. No change is noted in quotations, as dealers have only a little butter, and was bought at last week's prices, but it is likely that lower prices will be named on to-day's arrivals, which were bought on a heavier and lower basis. Trading was very light yesterday. There is no change to speak of in cheese or eggs. Eggs are still plentiful and easy. Old cheese is well used up and new goods have not yet begun to arrive freely.

MARKETING THE LAMBS.

Early Youngsters Bring Best Prices in June and July.

Many farmers who are beginning in the sheep business have lambs coming in March and April, and it is well to consider just how to handle these lambs in order to make the greatest profit, says the Indiana Farmer. The ewe lambs will be for the most part kept over for breeding purposes. The wether lambs will all be sold within 12 months. The problem is whether to push these forward and sell them on the early market, say June, July or August, or to keep them through till Christmas, January or February, and sell them for about the same number of dollars per head that they secured in mid-summer. Which of these methods should be adopted will depend on the possibility of selling them in carload lots, or to sell them to men who make up carload lots.
